

Chad C Henriksen, DC, DACBOH

Dr Henriksen, a 1995 Chiropractic graduate of Northwestern Health Sciences University, holds a Diplomate degree in Occupational Health and Applied Ergonomics and is President/Owner of Advantage Wellness. Since 1996 he has provided a variety of health and wellness services to industry including; seminars, health and safety workshops, wellness coordination, ergonomic consultation and injury prevention programs. His onsite chiropractic treating clinics are on the leading edge of employee benefits and corporate cost savings.

In addition, Dr Henriksen has presented at numerous local, regional and national occupational health and safety conferences. He is currently part of the Northwestern Health Sciences University's Post Graduate Occupational Health faculty and carries great passion for improving the workplace and motivating employees to better health. Currently he lives in Waconia Minnesota with his wife Jodi and their four children.