MEDIA RELEASE

February 13, 2004

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE...

COUNCIL on OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH ADVANCES PROFESSION IN OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH ARENA

The American Chiropractic Association has a Council on Occupational Health (ACACOH) that Doctors of Chiropractic can become part of and lend support to. The ACACOH exists to advance the chiropractic profession in the specialty of Chiropractic Occupational Health by providing and sponsoring educational programs, vendor resource list, and through the Council's web site at <http://www.acacoh.com>.

In recent years, the Council has had excellent representation atop Capitol Hill and has gained national awareness of its existence and purpose. Working closely with the ACA, the Council has provided product endorsements and ergonomic product reviews on children's back packs and other products. For the past two years and now again for 2004, the Council will provide speakers for the Florida Chiropractic Association's Annual (August) Convention educational programs. Once again, the Council will hold its annual business meeting while at the FCA Convention in Orlando, August 27-29.

Doctors interested in the Council on Occupational Health may contact President, Bruce Hansbrough, DC, DACBOH at 772.285.2133 (cell) or by email at bhansbro@earthlink.net.
